

LITTONIAN 1968

"ENTER TO LEARN

GO FORTH TO SERVE."

*The Graduating Class
Of 1968
Proudly Presents The Littonian*

Foreword

The pages of this book reveal the students of L.H.S. as we really are--the sum total of the untarnished hopes of our parents and teachers.

We, the Class of 1968, have reached a high-water mark in the eternal struggle for learning. Through twelve indelible years in the Littlestown public schools, we have seen, experienced, and participated in many outstanding activities and social events. We have given both our strength and pent-up emotions to Littlestown's gridiron and hardcourt representatives. And, as you shall see, we have had our giggly seventh grade poses transformed into the quieter, more responsible Senior outlook.

Six enlightening years in our lives in which have only too means of tangible evidence--one is the very distinguished looking book and the other is a memory filled with many blissful experiences.

Dedication

We, the Class of 1968, dedicate this yearbook to Mrs. Ruth Elder and Mr. Larry McGriff, in appreciation of their devotion and unselfish service to Littlestown High School and to us, the graduating class.

They have struggled through the years with us, laughed with us and cried. They have borne our hardships and they have sacrificed on our behalf. They have prodded us and guided us; they have led us to the top.

Our thanks to these devoted people are many; this dedication--a small token for which words are inadequate.

After twelve years we see our teachers through our own eyes.
Now we know they are no more nor less than what they want to be . . . Understanding . . .
patient . . . always there to help us when we're confused . . .
a little temperamental, like us
. . . sometimes unfair . . .
sometimes funny . . . a few times
sad . . . Dictators . . . kings
. . . and queens . . . They are actors and they are critics . . .
They are full of expectations and exasperations . . . They can "bug" teenagers more than any other adult . . . finks . . . fanatics
. . . favorites . . . They have walked in our shoes and they know how they pinch . . . They know us for what we are . . . Teachers are a part of us . . .

FRANK E. BASEHOAR

To The Class of 1968

When you, the Class of 1968, receive your wings as the pilots of tomorrow and take your places at the controls of your lives . . . it is my hope that the legacy of your school will serve as your co-pilot and what you have learned will become your navigator. Together may you fly the true course of life, rise above the storms and turbulences of this world, and find safe landing on the goal you have chosen.

Frank E. Basehoar
Supervising Principal

Fast moving airplanes, space travel, international communication and heart transplants are no longer laughed at fantasies but part of that world in which you are to play a major role. What would have seemed to past generations nothing short of miraculous is becoming everyday occurrence.

The challenge of technology and thinking has moved beyond the obstacles of superstition and fear, opening vast new worlds for exploration in which you will tread.

You have been willed a legacy of vast knowledge of man's mistakes, generosity, social understanding and the greatest power for peace or war man has ever known. It is for each of you to add in your way another piece in this never ending jig-saw puzzle of man's existence.

My wish for you, the "Class of 1968", is that each of you enter into this challenge without dwelling on, but considering past mistakes, build a world of beauty, understanding and peace.

My best wishes go with you.

Sincerely,

E. D. Freeland
Principal

Class History

Stunned and amazed, we the class of 1968, stood in awe as we entered the huge building on top of the hill, early in September of 1962. Although the surroundings and activities were new to us we soon found them to our liking. As seventh graders we participated in junior high sports and started our money-making projects. Gradually we became accustomed to our new life at L.H.S. and became a part of it.

As eighth graders we fully participated in all school activities and wholeheartedly supported our school.

In our Freshman year we won the magazine campaign and were treated by seeing a movie, "The Pathfinder." We worked hard on the Valentine Dance with the theme "February's Treasures." We were kept quite busy with our money-making projects and soon our year came to an end.

We began our Sophomore year as true senior high students. The year sped by quickly.

Before we knew it we found ourselves Juniors. We received our class rings and planned the Junior-Senior Prom, "Polynesian Paradise." In the same year Sandra Crouse won the title of Adams County Junior Miss. Toward the end of the year several members in our class were accepted in a band and chorus which toured Europe.

Finally we reached the top, our last year at L.H.S., as Seniors. We realized our responsibilities and have tried our best to fulfill them. I'm sure we will never forget our class trip to Washington, the senior play and the Christmas Dance. How hard the staff of the Littonian worked to reach its deadline! I am sure we will always remember Jan Hagander our exchange student this year from Sweden.

As we look back on these past six years with sadness we will have lasting memories and friendships. But we now go forth to serve our community and become good citizens.

We, the class of 1968 would like to express our gratitude to the teachers and parents that have made this possible. And we say our final good-byes to underclassmen and wish them luck in their future years at L.H.S.

Respectfully submitted,
Debbie Rhoades, Historian

This is the sad, sad story of two young girls . . .

What manner of beast be this?

WHO is this Mr. Grenier, and WHAT is a term paper?

Whiskey!

What? Me worry?

Do not take candy from this man!

New Arrival From Sweden

JAN HAGANDER

This year's exchange student, Jan Hagander, comes to us from Kristianstad, Sweden.

Jan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gustof Hagander and has one younger brother, Carl, who is 15 years old.

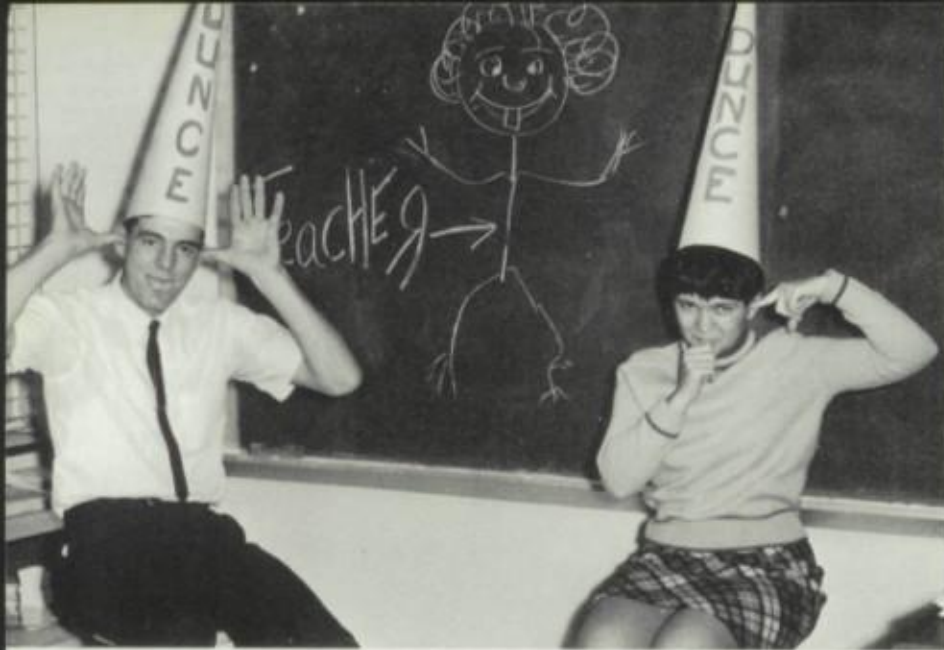

For his hobbies, Jan lists them as reading, photography and skiing. He says his favorite sports include Ice Hockey, and Tennis and also says that he doesn't like our football.

Jan says he enjoys his school system better than ours because of the rest periods during the day and because of the longer lunch periods that he was accustomed to at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Arter have been his hosts for the past year of his visit with us.

On returning home Jan has two more years of school before he graduates. After graduation Jan wishes to go to the University of Lund, where he will study Theology to become a minister.

Hello Dahlink!

Oh won't I?

Would you believe the dope
left the top down?

His name's Arnold, and he HATES cats!

If only I could get the window open!

The New Look Of The Blue Band

The members of the 1967-68 Blue Band would like to take this opportunity to thank the public for making these new band uniforms possible.

The early mornings in the cafeteria making hoagies do not seem like a very great sacrifice when we think of the heartburn you must have suffered after buying them. Even the Brittle's peanut brittle was bought by the truckloads in spite of the danger of cavities and broken jaws--all these risks were taken by you, the citizens of Littlestown, in order to better your community by making new band uniforms possible. Once again, we thank you.

Football Lettermen

Quarterback Weaver earning the A.G. Ealy Award.

1967 A.G. Ealy Award Winner

The close of the 1967 football season saw the selection of quarterback Robin Weaver as the recipient of the seventh annual A. G. Ealy Award. The award, in memory of the late Mr. A. G. Ealy, Vice-President of the Littlestown Hardware and Foundry, is presented each year to a senior football player on the basis of citizenship, scholarship, and football ability. The award consists of an engraved silver cup, and a $500.00 scholarship to an accredited college. The award was presented by Mr. Ealy's successor, Mr. L. Robert Snyder.

Coach Bauer, Mr. Snyder, Weaver, Mr. Basehoar, and Mr. Freeland.

Mistletoe

The month of December brought with it that special splendor of red and green--Christmas. These days overflowed with gift-buying, secret plans and parties. Then came the night to remember--the Christmas dance the night you never did forget.

The winter nipped your nose and the snow fell so softly as you walked in "its" silence to "her" front door, wearing that silly rented tux (too tight or too large), carrying her corsage in your cold hand. There were the nervous exchanges of pleasantries with her parents, but you couldn't take your eyes off "her" in that fabulous gown.

Remember the slow ride to the dance . . . the snow dancing

Magic

across the windshield . . . that formal entrance and the tinsel and candles and you couldn't believe the cafeteria could ever go back to being bleak . . . soft lights and dreamy music . . . the scent of pine and spruce . . . the smell of food . . . more tinsel and shining eyes . . . the sweet smell of fresh gardenias and rosebuds.

A night of fun, dancing, sharing those secrets, flashbulbs and giggles. Then the band's rendition of "White Christmas" . . . the last dance and that long ride home, "Merry Christmas, Luv" . . . and then that eternal goodnight kiss.

It was a night to remember!

Polynesian

The month of May brought not only the smell of lilacs and the thought of graduation coming near but also--the Prom.

After seemingly endless hours of decorating, you were finally able to remove the fine pieces of straw from your freshly styled coiffure and step into the gown of your dreams. You stand at the top of the stairs, nervously chewing off your freshly applied lipstick, while your father

Paradise

answers the door. Then there HE is--looking so handsome in his tux, even though it is a size too small (you'll make out you hadn't noticed.)

Now, looking back, you can still remember the soft candlelight, . . . the exotic atmosphere . . . your head on his shoulder . . . the withering corsage . . . the stars as he walked you to your door . . . his husky voice saying--See you tomorrow.

Editor's Note

The yearbook you are holding in your hand is the product of late hours, headaches, and bromo-seltzer. As I am writing this, it is a gray Saturday afternoon. We have been here for six interminable hours and have completed only six pages.

It certainly was not an easy job as dummies were drawn up, typewriters clicked, and we all went stark raving mad. I would like to thank Mr. Stover, the Creative Writing class, Mr. Bream and the Photography Club, and the staff for making this confusion possible.

Long hours of work were spent compiling this book and now that it is completed, I would just like to say that the staff did an excellent job.

THE STEP FROM YESTERDAY

The step from yesterday to today is unbelievably short. And yet it all began with that bit of self-importance mingled with fear on the way to your first day in Rolling Acres. Then came those happy years until up popped seventh grade and high school and your fears arose again. Those oddball experiences . . . touring the court house and the hydraulics plant . . . class meetings . . . Mrs. Wiley's French classes . . . German I . . . the day Mr. Bream's fish mysteriously died . . . the sock hops after lunch . . . shop antics. Along flashed school plays . . . study halls that nearly slew you . . . gourmet lunches . . . and the Junior High Party, and you wore your school clothes!

Chinese fire drills . . . recording sessions with the band and chorus . . . "You've got to know the definitions!" . . . trips to York just for Cokes . . . crisp fall air . . . stadium lights and the dazzle of Blue and Gold . . . the first time you wore 'his' ring . . . pasting up the ECHO . . . stacks of books and reams of tablet paper . . . cram . . . cram . . . cram . . . looking up to Seniors . . . looking down as Seniors . . .

Always teachers! The senior trip . . . pictures . . . LITTONIAN! Announcements . . . gowns . . . the long march to "Pomp and Circumstance."

The handshakes with the president of the school board . . .

Diplomas . . .

Handshakes . . .

Goodbyes . . .
